

Areas of Expertise:
Geotechnical Engineering
Geologic Services
Environmental Services
Endangered Species Act Consulting
Sediments Studies and Planning
Ground Water Consulting

Contact: John H. Biggane
15055 SW Sequoia Pkwy, Suite 140
Portland, OR 97214

jbiggane@geoengineers.com

503.624.9274 503.620.5940 FAX

www.geoengineers.com

Description of Services	Geotechnical services including site selection, foundation design, ground stabilization design, seismic risk analyses, and construction monitoring. Geologic services such as landslide evaluations and stabilization design, and the delineation/mapping of geologic hazards. Environmental services such as site assessments and characterizations, remedial investigations, feasibility studies, environmental risk assessments, remediation designs, and management of “cleanups.” Endangered Species Act (ESA) services provided to help our clients interpret the ESA and how the ESA affects their projects and facilities. Sediments Studies and Planning including evaluation, dredging, and transport studies, and remediation planning. Ground water services including water supply development and water rights studies, aquatic analyses, wellhead protection studies, dewatering designs, and analyses of contaminant segregation designs for construction dewatering.
History/Years in Business	Founded in 1980, GeoEngineers is an employee-owned, earth science, environmental, and technology consulting firm. Our staff includes 300 engineers, scientists, geologists, field personnel, GIS specialists, laboratory specialists, and administrative staff. Clients we have worked with include many local and national public agencies, port districts, and a variety of private entities.
Geographic Area Served	We work primarily in the western United States with particular focus in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, California, Utah, Texas, Missouri, and Alaska. Our projects reach the far corners of the world including ongoing projects in Vietnam, Panama, Brazil, and West Africa.